Students are free to read as many books as they wish from the Summer Reading List, but every student must read Cue for Treason by Geoffrey Trease and two additional books of their choosing from the list provided. No other titles may be substituted.

- 1. During the first few weeks of school students will be given a class assignment to complete regarding their Summer Reading selections.
- 2. In addition, notes must be taken--handwritten (details are below) while reading their book selections during the summer and these notes will be collected on the first full day of school.

The notes are to be organized and labeled under the following headings:

- a) Title and Author: a record of the title (underlined) and author's full name.
- b) Main Characters: record impressions on a maximum of two main characters, describing their physical traits (include gender, name, and age as well), and psychological traits (personality traits, with brief examples from the story to support these traits). Each description of a main character is to be approximately 50 words.
- c) Setting: record the time period, place of events, duration of events, and social conditions if applicable—for example, is there evidence of racism or war? 50 words
- d) Summary: provide a short summary of the plot in one paragraph. Answer the: who, what, where, when, why and how of the story. This plot summary is to be approximately 100 words.
- 3. Do not use someone else's notes or copy notes from an outside source including the internet (even partially) as this constitutes plagiarism and will result in a mark of zero.
- 4. Please respect the word count for the notes.

The aim of summer reading is to provide an enjoyable and varied reading experience and to ensure exposure to writers who may not have been previously encountered. It is hoped that parents will show interest in their child's reading, but will allow the activity to be the sole responsibility of the student.
